

Eric S. Glover – Biographical Summary

Eric S. Glover currently serves as the Chief of the Civil Enforcement Section of the Office of the Attorney General for the District of Columbia. The Civil Enforcement Section represents the District of Columbia, its employees and various agencies in a variety of affirmative and administrative litigation matters before numerous administrative boards, the District of Columbia Office of Administrative Hearings and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. Prior to joining the Civil Enforcement Section, Mr. Glover oversaw the District of Columbia Office of Risk Management's Tort Liability Program. He also served as an Assistant Attorney General with the Office of the Attorney General's Civil Litigation Division, where he defended the District of Columbia and its employees against negligence, constitutional and employment discrimination lawsuits. Prior to joining the Civil Litigation Division, Mr. Glover practiced criminal, civil and medical malpractice law in New York City.

Mr. Glover currently sits on the Council for Court Excellence's Board of Directors and Strategic Planning Subcommittee. Additionally, he co-chairs the Washington Bar Association's Knowledge is Power: Brown Bag Committee and is a founding member of its Military and Government Lawyers Section. Previously, Mr. Glover served as a member of the D.C. Bar's Litigation Section's Steering Committee. He also participates in various community service programs throughout the District.

A native Bostonian, Mr. Glover received his bachelor's degree in Political Science from Morgan State University, and his J.D. from Howard University School of Law.